

Why Join MPGA?

To have your views effectively represented at all levels of government—federal, state and local.

To provide input for consideration when industry standards and regulations are being established or modified.

To exchange ideas with others in the industry.

To participate in vitally important decisions affecting the propane gas industry.

To help strengthen the Association's ability to maintain a favorable business climate for the propane gas industry.

To assist in making the government and the public aware of propane gas as a safe, efficient energy source through Association public relations programs.

To pay in part for the benefits you already receive as an industry member.

According to a recent survey, 85% of business failures were not active members of trade or professional associations.

It would appear that some business owners who don't see the advantages of joining and becoming active in trade organizations are the ones who need an association the most.

The man who's out in front has an organization behind him.
